

core STRATEGY

Stanislaus County Office of Education's Child and Family Services (CFS) gives youth a head start in school, work and life by educating children supporting parents and developing professionals who work with them. As a result, the division makes a substantial impact on individual lives and those of the communities it serves while ensuring its programs are diverse, equitable, and inclusive. CFS takes pride in providing high-quality services that incorporate best practices and yield optimal outcomes.

EDUCATING CHILDREN

CFS staff and partners provide holistic, comprehensive, high-quality experiences for young children in centers and homes. Beyond cognitive development, early educators help children develop the social-emotional skills that are vital to success, not just in the classroom but the community.

SUPPORTING PARENTS

CFS believes that parents are their child's first and most important teacher and division administrators and staff support them in that role. CFS also helps develop strong families by providing social service referrals. Whether you are a biological parent, foster parent, guardian or grandparent, strong families play an integral role in a child's development.

DEVELOPING PROFESSIONALS

A high-quality early education experience for children and families begins with the staff who work with them. CFS and its partners make investments in the early education workforce, so its members have the education and training needed to help children play, learn, and grow and to enable parents and families to thrive. This results in highly skilled and trained professionals.
